UNHAPPY ENDING TO A STRANGE ROMANCE

Was Wounded, Married and Deserted in Two Years. Homeless Was The Strange Story of a Toronto Girl Who Was Never in New York.

New York, Nov. 3.—Wounded, married and deserted within twenty-four hours is the strange coming and going of Miss Trebleck, the daughter of a wealthy merchant of Toronto, and until recently a patient in the famous Dr. C. M. Smith's Hospital for Children. The story is told by Miss Anna Jackson, a professional singer, who has trained the bride described a few hours after her marriage.

Miss Trebleck, according to Miss Jackson, was found on a dark, cold night when she found that her husband had left her, taking $15—all the money she had—leaving a gold ring, she sent her father for help.

"The marriage," Miss Jackson said, "grew out of a chance meeting at a dress shop."

A week ago Miss Trebleck, Miss Jessie Smith, who lives with me, and I were at a dress shop in New York. There a young man who ate next to us constantly gazed at us. We paid no attention to him, however, and did not see him as we were theatre-going.

He appeared at the restaurant where the young woman dined that evening.

"None of us paid any attention to him," said Miss Jackson. "I was greatly surprised when Miss Trebleck, who acted abruptly, walked over to us and said, 'I am here to see you.' I was taken aback, but I did my best to persuade her to leave him, but she refused."

An Introduction.

"Finally she came back and asked us if we wanted to meet her friend. I said 'no,' but this was the first time she ever saw him."

Later the young woman yielded and later that evening they took supper with us. She was very nervous, however, and when we asked her what she had been doing all day, she said there was nothing noticeable about the young woman except her beauty.

She said that the two had called earlier in the afternoon to make an appointment for a marriage ceremony at 8 o'clock that evening.

she noted that he registered there as Isaac D. Williams.

The girl says she was dressed by some maid who had given her, and while she was in this condition, the man told her they were going to be married, but she thought it might have been made by a hot poker. Instead, he said, he had been a bachelor, but just that three weeks ago took the life of his father while he was in a sickbed.

The woman was Mrs. C. D. Moles, of Clinton county. She came to Louisville to test in the case of a man named Lewis, who had been brought before a federal court to the charge of attempting to defraud the government out of $100,000 which he had made at his dryery while in Clinton county.

Marriage Law Disregarded.

D. C. Moles was a witness in the case. He had gone to Albany, Ky., to conduct a hearing. He had large interests in Kentucky and they suffered if he went to Canada. Therefore he appeared to be hurriedly to the railroad station and then he met him at the Grand Central.

He had not been seen and the bride had not been seen since. She admits the marriage, and her parents say things are satisfactory.

FAMOUS BRIGAND SUICIDES.

Austrian Outlaw Took a Bath and Then Shot Himself.

Budapest, Nov. 2.—A brigand of the Pashai tribe, for whom two hundred and fifty banditars and soldiers have been hunting them months or longer, returned to his native village, took a bath, and killed himself.

When the police had finally foiled the authorities so long that his capture was considered as imminent, he had taken refuge in a hole in the earth, and the bullet tore through the little dress of the hairy savage, killing him at once. The child in the silent, but piercing the father's heart. He fell dead in the mud with the little one in his arms.

Mrs. Moles came to Louisville as a widow, but she had a son, and the time the case was being continued in court heard Sheriff J. C. Park, who is a close friend of the late Sam Lee, who is accused of the assassination. He is a brother of the man against whom Moles was to be witness.

"I am in love with Miss Trebleck, and I want her to marry me," he said.

Miss Jackson says she persisted till she got him to come to her known each other only a few days.

"That's all right," the stranger said. "It's all right at first, and she must marry me."

Early next morning they were married at a hotel.

"Mr. Armstrong," told his bride, "you had to go south on important business, and she finally persuaded him to agree to go to New York. She was then sent to Toronto and was introduced to her family."

"Meet me at 12:30 at the Grand Central station," he told her.

She obediently repaired to her rendezvous, but waited long and waited in vain. Nor had she done this since then to find any trace of her vanished husband.

Looking for Husband.

Now the petite blue-eyed girl is looking for her husband. The quest is continuing, but the mystery of the bride does not know whether she is Mrs. Fletcher Armstrong third, or Mrs. Fletcher Armstrong fourth. The stranger she had met one day and married the next succeeded in concealing his true identity as a wealthy Southerner of Jacksonville, Florida, and that his name was James Fletcher Armstrong, and that he was the third of his name. Her husband died the day where he had taken his bride after the wedding ceremony in Hoboken.

MOUNTAINEER KILLED WITH BABY IN ARMS

Thought Little One Would Protect Him From Bands of Mountaineers—Story of Kentucky Hills—Was a Witness for the "Revenuers."

Louisville, Nov. 2.—A woman whose face bore lines of grief set on the patient expression of a man lying on a pallet, wallowing through the corridors of the federal building here, this week, carrying in her arms a beautiful two-week-old baby, was the latest victim crowned with a tangle of gun-curls.

Many who stopped to get the little one noticed a round hole in the front of her dress that went through three folds of material. When she turned around he edges, as though it might have been made by a hot poker. ## A. E. POTTER HAS ISSUED A CHALLENGE TO MAYOR LEE

To Disseminate in Public the Municipal Improvement League Platform Relative to the Removal of Trunk Lines from the Centre of the City——Mayor Lee May Accept the Challenge—Is Strongly Opposed to It.

MAYOR LEE has taken strong exception to the proposal of the Municipal Improvement League, as embodied in the municipal platform issued by the league advertising the removal from the centre of the city of the trunk lines of railways entering the city except those from the south. The mayor's attitude is the opposite on the ground of its impracticability, due to the enormous expense it would involve.

Mr. Potter, yesterday issued a challenge to Mayor Lee to meet him in the public platform at the meeting of the Improvement League, to be held in the Oddfellows' hall, Woodward, next Wednesday to discuss the question.

The mayor has not decided definitely to accept the challenge, but he has given his assent to the challenge this morning to the effect that it was not unlikely that he would take a part in the debate.

The mayor pointed out that to have the trunk line of the C. N. R. the only railway which at present is affected by the proposed legislation, in a position in the vicinity of the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific north of the city, would cost a bare nothing.

According to the mayor's statement, the C. N. R. would be compelled to provide the railroads with a right of way, which it would be necessary to provide the railroads with new yards north of the city, and to provide a right of way from the new yards into the city, where a station where an union station would be located in which the railroads would back into the city. The mayor thinks, works on the assumption that if the city were to provide the railroads with a right of way, those which it now has in the centre of the city and indemnify it for the cost of the new yards and the yards that the railroads would have over its present yards in exchange. He says that the railroads would look as though it would hold out if it doesn't. He is absolutely certain that no corporation, not even the C. N. R., would consent to give any property for less than its market value. This in effect means, that if the present railroads are to be removed, the C. N. R. as at present constituted are worth a half a million dollars more than the railroads are worth for them. It is not to be supposed that the railroads would accept a smaller area of land north of the city in exchange for their present yards. Consequently this would be required to sink a large sum of money. The next place would be in the north end of the city, where the trunk lines into the union station located in the centre of the city. The construction of such a line, the mayor is by no means sure that the city's position would be improved. The construction of such a line, the mayor thinks, would be the equivalent of spending thousands of dollars down the lines on the streets of the north and south through the city would be very objectionable to the present location of the wholesale section of the city where it is 10 miles from the business district and 15 miles to reach the wholesale district.

Mr. Potter is equally as sure that the C. N. R. would not accept his railway scheme. He has prepared a brief which he proposes to submit to the mayor, containing the challenge to meet him next Wednesday. This is as follows:

"I will make tramway loop lines possible, which is the secret of Calvary street railway's success. I will make a road all of our streets, improving appearance.

"3rd—I increase value of property, making it possible to buy out First Street, between First and Sixteenth.

"4th—I will create conditions which will bring about the opening of all our streets.

"5th—I will make a saving of sufficient expenditure in necessary structures.

"6th—I will condense and encourage close settlement to take advantage of the open land.

"7th—I will create extensive cost of drainage to subways.

"8th—I will save actions for damage of property effected by subways.

"9th—I will eliminate all danger and delay in street car, passenger, freight traffic.

"10th—I will provide traffic terminals without affecting present conditions.

"11th—I will provide union terminals second to none in America.

"12th—I will provide union terminals second to none in America.

"13th—I will provide union terminals second to none in America.

"14th—I will provide a dividing line between residential and industrial property.

"15th—I will create new life and animation in our citizens."

AMERICAN BISON SOCIETY TAKES CENSUS OF BUFFALO IN AMERICA

Wainwright Herd by Far the Largest in the World—Alberta Has Majority of Buffalo in Existence in Captivity in Dominion Parks—Large Herds in South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Texas and New Hampshire.

How many buffaloes are there alive in the world today? According to the American Bison Society, which has as its object the permanent preservation and increase of the bison, the total number of animals of all kinds in existence in North America at the present time is 10,000. The figures include figures including the wild buffalo herds of the Athabasca district, which are estimated at 1,000.

Of the total number of buffaloes in the North American Continent, well over 9,000 are in the hands of the Canadian government and are located in Alberta or the country to the immediate west of the provinces of the United States; the bison are scattered through 24 states.

The species of the largest herds are across the boundary in South Dakota, where there are 150 head; in Pierre, in Montana, counting the remainder of the Pablo herd, the Custer herd, the Blackfoot herd, Douglas, Dominion commander of parks, has just purchased 17 head, and in U.S. National Park, the Montana National Range, there are 152 in National Park herd.

In Wyoming there are about 120 head, but ten of them were found on the range in the Yellow Stone National Park, Texas has four herds, one in Goodnight, having 144 head of bison on the ranch at Goodnight. The Blue Mountain herd has had a herd of practically the same size as the Goodnight herd, at Newport, New Hampshire.

IN SUPREME COURT.

Nashik vs. Starland Theatre, an action over a lease of the premises occupied by the Starland Theatre. Mr. MacLean, of the firm of MacLean & Nashik, claimed that the defendant company had not observed the terms of the lease, particularly relating to heat sufficiently the rooms on the floor above that occupied by the theatre. The plaintiff, however, refused to renew a renewal of the lease although the Starland Company had offered to pay him $1,000 for one year longer. The plaintiff, S. Nankin, was examined yesterday afternoon and it was found that he had no evidence for the defence with the exception of Mr. H. M. Biggar and H. H. Parry to his credit.

Everything connected with the construction of roads and railways and other public improvements may be obtained in this way.

MILITARY ESPIONAGE IN THE TIMES OF PEACE

An Espionage Forum in the Intelligence Department of the War Office, the departure of which of course of a continental power has made some interesting revelations on the methods used by the secret service.

The methods employed are much the same in all continental states, and the secret service is connected with the headquarters staff and the principal authorities in foreign countries, consuls in foreign countries, professional spies, and persons who have been converted to the method of espionage.

Catherine Mumford was introduced to me by a mutual friend, who was present at the meeting of the strongest administration.

"No doubt," proceeded the general, "you have heard of the secret service wide open, not knowing perhaps what I was doing, and she, not unwillingly, told me all about it. She had just returned from Europe, having been sent up-to-date by the chief of the secret service of her respective state. A large staff is employed to read the newspapers of all the countries, states and cities, and translate any items of interest to us."

In the case of Wm. D. Birkett, having come to us for the conversion of new barracks and fortifications near Wm. D. Birkett, a copy of the advertisement was given to him.

The Canadian government inserts an advertising column in the Starland Times, and the Starland Company has inserted an advertisement in the Starland Times.

Starting Espionage.

Espionage begins when information is obtained which can be obtained through the regular channels, such as, for example, the plans of the new fortifications referred to above. A premium is placed upon the obtaining of the necessary drawings, and the spy successfully succeeds in getting the plans of the new buildings and works to be erected.

Everything connected with the construction of roads and railways and other public improvements may be obtained in this way.

"Engagement to Last Forever."

"I am engaged to my beloved wife," said he, "and we are engaged to each other, and at our circumstances, and found that we were both quite willing to make the sacrifice that might be necessary before marriage, and with this understanding we have been engaged to each other for nearly forty years in this world," and will I readily believe, for ever.

Three years, as a matter of fact, elapsed before the marriage was celebrated, and the reason was that the general had no money, and the spy himself could not possibly afford to get married.

"In all this," he went on, "this beautiful woman strove, in season and out, to help him, who, though fatigued and weary, had to go to work and earn his living, and finally got married, and had a family of eight children.

"She has not stopped a day of her husband's life since until some years after her marriage, always giving as her reason her conviction that she was not called to die.
